to force negotiations for a better lease agreement with Pacific Vineyards Ltd. The Derricksons, who claim complete support of the Westbank

Indian band, say the firm has not lived up to agreements made when the land was originally leased and have sworn not to allow further harvesting of the ripe wine grape crop. Mrs. Theodore Derrickson and other members of the Westbank band look on. (Courier photo).

Jordan Fight Still Raging

BEIRUT, Lebanon (CP) — Jordanian and Palestine guerrilla forces battled in Amman and in northern Jordan today in the sixth day of a conflict that Cairo radio declared has cost 10,000 lives.

The Palestine guerrilla leaders warned the United States that all American interests in the Middle East would be destroyed if its troops intervened in Jordan.

A statement by the central committee of the Palestine Liberation Organization broadcast on the Damascus-based guerrilla radio accused the U.S. of masterminding the "Amman bloodbath."

The statement also accused the Americans of having closed their eyes to the massacres "committed by their lackeys in Amman."

Egypt also warned against any American intervention in Jordan as a "hostile action against the whole Arab people."

Information Minister Mohammed Hassanain Heikal told a news conference in Cairo that a U.S. action in the midst of the Jordanian strife would have repercussions far beyond the Middle East.

U.S. TROOPS ALERTED

The U.S. 6th Fleet continued to be reinforced in the Mediterranean and warships were on patrol less than 100 miles off the coast of Israel while 10,000 troops were placed on the alert in Europe and the United States. But Washington was looking for a diplomatic solution of the crisis.

Dickie suggests we kick this idea around.

Britain and France were reported to have been opposed to any intervention and Washington declined to say whether Jordan had asked for the United States to intervene.

The Soviet Union formally advised Britain it opposes foreign intervention in the Jordanian conflict, informed diplomats reported in London.

The informants said the Soviet attitude now is being closely assessed by Britain in consultation with the United States and France. A "shoot to kill" curfew was reimposed on Amman, with half the Jordanian capital reported in ruins and government troops and guerrillas again fighting from street to street.

Westbank Trouble Results From Dispute About Lease

Indians have locked the gate to a 94-acre vineyard in Westbank, vowing authorities will have to jail every "man, woman and child" of the Westbank band if they attempt to remove the blockade without new lease negotiations.

Owned by Theodore Derrickson, a prominent member of the Westbank band, the land is leased to Pacific Vineyards for $20 an acre—a price the Indians claim is too low and must be re-negotiated.

Ron Derrickson, son of Theodore, and spokesman for the group who padlocked the land late Monday night, claims management of the vineyard has violated agreements made when the lease was signed 10 years ago.

He said the current lease was signed by the department of Indian affairs without agreement from the Westbank band tribal council or the elder Mr. Derrickson.

"The review of rentals was up and dad (Theodore Derrickson) wouldn't sign, so the department of Indian affairs put it through without him," Mr. Derrickson said.

The lease agreement, according to the Indians, was for five years, with three five-year options to renew.

Agreed upon at the time of the signing, but never included in the formal contract, was the stipulation that if the price of grapes went above $120 a ton the rent would be increased.

Mr. Derrickson said since the price of grapes rose to $185 a ton Pacific Vineyards has offered his father an increase of $2 per acre. He termed the offer a "slap in the face."

The Derricksons claim the department of Indian affairs, acting as legal counsel for the Indians, deleted the clause from the contract either deliberately or through an oversight.

Mr. Derrickson said the grievance has been pursued through proper channels, but without result, forcing the Indians to take matters into their own hands.

'He Said He'd Put Dad In Jail'

"Stewart (Richard Stewart, vineyard manager) told dad if he locked the gate he would put dad in jail," Mr. Derrickson said.

"But they're going to have to put every man, woman and child in the band in jail because every time they take one away we'll put someone else in his place."

The Westbank band has given the Derricksons complete support in their campaign, Mr. Derrickson said, and has pledged to wage the fight "with every dime we have."

Although the Indian blockade turned back two truck loads of pickers early today, and Monday night stopped vineyard employees from picking up 100 bins of picked grapes, no opposition has been offered the blockaders.

Mr. Derrickson would not comment on what action the Indians would take if authorities attempted to force the locked gate before the problem had been solved by negotiations.

He did say he hoped matters would not reach that stage.

"We thought the white and Indian wars were over, but if they want to start them again then we will finish them," Mr. Derrickson added.

The Derricksons claim their land is not getting the same treatment as other Indian land, including a 40-acre segment owned by Harry Derrickson, brother of Theodore, Harry Derrickson, leasing to another firm, reportedly receives $40 an acre.

Grenades Wound 3 Arab Children

GAZA (AP) — Grenade explosions wounded three Arab children at a Gaza school Tuesday, a military spokesman reported. A half hour after the first attack, Arab saboteurs struck at two other schools on the occupied Gaza Strip with grenades and gunfire, but there were no casualties, the spokesman reported.

Floating Dollar 'Will Be Pegged'

COPENHAGEN (CP) — Canada will re-establish a pegged exchange rate for the dollar when its economy is moving forward again and other countries slow their inflation, Finance Minister Edgar Benson said today.

He told the annual meeting of the International Monetary Fund the new pegged rate will be somewhat lower than its current high-riding level of nearly 99 cents in terms of U.S. money. It was pegged at 92.5 cents until June 1, when it was set free to find its own level in international exchange markets.

Benson also told the meeting attended by 3,000 bankers, finance ministers, foreign aid officials and their advisers that Canada would like the IMF to set new rules allowing currencies to trade day-to-day dealings within a wider margin than the one-per-cent limit above and below official pegs. He said Canada's experience with the current floating of the dollar will be useful to the IMF as it considers ways to allow more flexibility into the system. The IMF cannot legally approve floating, and executive officers have recommended a gain in floating as a general policy.

GIVES BACKGROUND

Benson related the background of Canada's decision to unpeg the dollar temporarily. Booming exports and inflows of foreign capital made it impossible last spring for the government and the Bank of Canada to continue buying U.S. dollars with Canadian dollars without having to borrow huge sums from the public at high interest rates. This, or creating a lot of new money, would have heightened inflationary pressures.

Russian Rocket Heads Home With A Precious Moon Rock

MOSCOW (Reuters) — An unmanned Russian rocket streaked back to earth today bearing precious moon rock samples after achieving another Soviet first in space.

The rocket, detached itself Monday after the Luna 16 spacecraft soft-landed on the moon's surface Sunday after an 8½-day journey.

It was the first time in space exploration that any part of an unmanned craft had lifted off from the moon and headed back to earth.

It also will mean that the United States no longer will have a monopoly of moon rock—once the rocket arrives back on earth.

Luna 16 landed on an area of the moon called the Sea of Fertility—a stretch of barren moon-scape—and the rocket took off a little more than 28 hours later. The official Soviet news agency Tass said that an electrically-operated bore collected rock samples from a depth of 14 inches after which they were transferred to a container and hermetically sealed.

The Luna 16 mission completely fulfilled its scientific research program, Tass said, and the capsule containing the moon rock will be parachuted to earth Thursday.

Tito Decides To Step Down

BELGRADE (AP) — President Tito has announced that he will step down after ruling Yugoslavia for 25 years and turn the country's government over to a collective leadership.

Tito, 78, did not indicate what his position would be, but it was believed in Belgrade, the capital, that he would be a member of the new body.

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — RCMP discovered the body of Ronald James Holt, 22, of Burnaby, in the wreckage of his tractor-trailer rig 43 miles east of here. The accident is believed to have occurred Sunday.

Ex-Mayorality Candidate Convicted

VANCOUVER (CP) — Former Vancouver mayorality candidate Allan Patterson has been found guilty in provincial court of threatening an office secretary May 28. Court was told Patterson, 59, was abusive after he asked the secretary, Linda Millward, for the manager and then for the president of Western Airlines.

Let's Have Holiday On Welfare, Penticton Mayor Tells Council

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP) — "Let's all go on welfare next year and holiday across Canada," Mayor F. D. Stuart told members of city council Monday night during discussion of complaints about the cost of welfare.

Prior to the mayor's remark Alderman G. W. Bolton told council he has "had more comment about the cost of welfare in the past week than about anything else in the past couple of years. People are really concerned about the costs."

"It's not the way the welfare is administered by us, it's the total cost."

Alderman Bolton referred to a speech to Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention here last week by Welfare Minister P. A. Gagliardi, saying "there he was, up there, telling everyone how to do it—telling us we weren't tough enough in welfare matters."

"Maybe the provincial government welfare office here should house the city's welfare office as well, and that way, perhaps we'll get some co-operation."

"We should absolutely refuse any welfare to transients and send them to Gagliardi's office," Mayor Stuart said "every municipality should get right out of the welfare business."

Alderman John Coe said he was "only concerned about the transients. They're really had a great time holidaying across Canada this year on welfare," prompting the mayor's comment.

SINGAPORE (AP) — Customs officials said Tuesday they have seized 100 pounds of marijuana from two Indonesian coastal ships, bringing to 289 the amount of marijuana confiscated since Friday.

DOCTOR ENJOYED A GLASS

'Sewage Becomes Good Drink

FISHHEATING CREEK, Fla. (AP) — Dr. David D. Woodbridge lifted a glass of water to his lips and drank it dry. Hours earlier, the water had been raw sewage from this south Florida campground.

"It's clean and it's good," he said.

The sewage had been transformed into pure, odorless water—like slightly warm distilled water—by gamma radiation at the first commercial nuclear sewage disposal plant built in the United States, perhaps the world.

The $87,000 plant essentially treats sewage in the usual way until, just before final filtering, the effluent is bombarded with rays from radioactive cobalt-60. The process is flexible. Water can be treated to such pureness it can be drunk, or it can receive lesser treatment for use in irrigation.

HAS WIDE EFFECT

Irradiation with cobalt does more than rid the sewage of disease-causing viruses and bacteria. It also breaks up deadly pesticides and reduces by up to one-third the quantity of phosphates and other nutrients in the water.

The plant has been in commercial operation for more than six months, treating sewage from trailers, bath houses, toilets and laundry machines at the Fishheating Creek campground west of Lake Okechobee.

Some 10,000 gallons are treated daily, with as much as 22,000 gallons on peak weekend days.

The plant is the brainchild of Woodbridge and his colleagues at Florida Institute of Technology in Melbourne. Woodbridge heads the physics department and is research director.

William R. Garrett, who supervised construction, explained that water from campground sources feeds through pipes into a wet well where paper and other solid objects are trapped and either screened out or broken down so they can enter the system.

USE AIR BUBBLES

The sewage flows from there into an air-bubbling aeration facility common to most sewage disposal plants. Then it goes into the radiation chamber where it is sterilized by gamma rays. The water does not directly contact the cobalt-60 but circulates around a core containing the radioactive material.

The water then moves into a dilution tank where gas created by oxidation of waste is removed. From there it goes into a primary vacuum filter, a polishing carbon filter and finally empties through a pipe into a nearby swamp.

There is no radioactive material in the outflowing water, and it is perfectly safe to the surrounding area, Garrett said.

Woodbridge said the treated water is not used for drinking at the camp because there is a plentiful normal supply.

Allowing for evaporation, Woodbridge said a municipality could save 80 per cent of its water by recycling it any number of times through an irradiation.

Hostages 'PoWs' Say Rebels

BEIRUT, Lebanon (Reuters) — The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine said today it considers its Western hijack hostages as prisoners-of-war because the United States, Britain, West Germany and Switzerland took a joint stand with Israel over the problem.

The Front newspaper Hadaf said since Israel considered itself in a state of war with the Arabs, and the four Western countries had associated themselves with Israel on this question, the Front would consider their citizens among the hostages as prisoners-of-war, like the Israelis.

Hadaf was publishing the text of a six-point message recently sent by the Front through an intermediary to the International Committee of the Red Cross, which has been negotiating for the release of the 54 passengers and crew members held in Jordan since Front guerrillas hijacked three airliners two weeks ago.

STICKS TO TERMS

The message said:

1. The Front would discuss an exchange of hostages only on the terms already announced—that is, against the freedom of seven guerrillas held in Europe and of two Algerians, 10 Lebanese soldiers, a Swiss commando sympathizer and an as yet unspecified number of guerrillas held in Israel.

2. The Western hostages would be considered prisoners-of-war like the Israelis.

Ex-Mayor Jailed

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Former Newark mayor Hugh J. Addonizio was sentenced Tuesday to 10 years in federal prison and fined $25,000 on his conviction for extortion and conspiracy.

Addonizio has already said he would appeal his conviction on 63 counts of extorting money from contractors doing business with the city of Newark and on one count of conspiracy. He could have received up to 20 years and a $10,000 fine on each of the 64 counts.

The sentence was imposed by United States District Court Judge George H. Barlow who called the scheme "a frightening alliance between criminal elements and public officials."

BALLOON LOST IN ATLANTIC

The huge balloon, the Free Life, was reported down in the stormy Atlantic today, with two men and a woman aboard. The three started out from Long Island Sunday attempting the first trans-Atlantic crossing in a balloon. Aboard were Rod Anderson, 32, New York broker, his wife, Pamela and an English aeronautical engineer, Malcolm Brighton, 32. The last message from the balloon was: "Six hundred feet and descending. Blowing off. Will try contact after landing." Canadian and U.S. coast guards are searching for the trio.

Too Many Babies 'A World Threat'

Robert S. McNamara, president of the World Bank, has urged the prevention of the births of a billion babies by the year 2000 to brake the world population explosion. McNamara told the opening session of the annual meeting of the bank and International Monetary Fund Monday in Copenhagen that an extensive birth control drive should be mounted to meet the population problem. The former United States defense secretary, who forecast the gap between rich and poor countries would continue to widen, said birth reduction of a billion would cut the population growth rate to one per cent a year. "The most imperative issue for the long term is population planning," he warned.

Hippie leader Charles Manson appeared at the opening of the 15th week of the Sharon Tate murder trial Monday in Los Angeles with a new cross cut deep into his forehead and gleaming with blood. The bearded Manson originally cut a cross on his forehead July 24, the day the prosecution opened its case against him and three of his female followers for the murders in August, 1969, of actress Sharon Tate and six others. At the time he cut the cross, Manson explained in a written statement: "I have led myself from your world."

Richard Hartmann, a former high-ranking Nazi gestapo officer and subordinate of Adolf Eichmann, pleaded not guilty in Berlin Monday to a charge of abetting the murder of at least 8,577 Jews. His trial opened before a West Berlin court earlier in the day. Hartmann, 59, who became a Nazi party member in 1930 and joined the SS in 1931, worked in the central office for Jewish emigrants when he was transferred in 1941 to Eichmann's Jewish department of the Reich security office—Hitler's centre for the extermination and persecution of millions of Jews.

A 39-year-old engineer testified Monday in Duesseldorf he helped steal a West German Air Force Sidewinder missile for the Soviet Union, shipped the pieces to Moscow by air freight and was paid $11,000 for the job. Manfred Rammler told the court that as he and his companions drove away from the air force base, the stolen nine-foot-long missile stuck out of the car so they tied a red flag on it to comply with West German traffic laws.

Graham Ernest Bedard, 23, of Grand Forks, was charged with criminal negligence causing death Monday in the Sept. 6 shooting of 27-year-old Robert Perry Melvin of Laurier, Wash. RCMP said Mr. Melvin was shot while picnicking near Cascade, B.C., close to the Canada-United States border and his home town.

Jack Sun Louie and Ling Wong, of Vancouver, suffered no ill effects from being lost overnight Sunday in their 17-foot boat in Howe Sound. They were found by a coast guard hovercraft.

A. Gordon Archibald of Halifax, president of Maritime Telegraph and Telephone Co. Ltd., today was elected president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Vancouver. A native of Truro, N.S., Mr. Archibald is also president of the Island Telephone Co. Ltd. of Prince Edward Island.

Premier Fidel Castro of Cuba will spend two days attending the UN's 25th anniversary celebrations next month, informed sources said Monday. The United States and the UN have been asked to make special security arrangements for the visit, they said.

A Vancouver business executive charged with the theft of more than $100,000 was committed Monday to stand trial on the charge. John David Devine, former president of the S. H. Leannard Company Limited, a stock brokerage firm, is charged with stealing the money from the company.

Bob Borrie, Liberal MP for Prince George-Peace River, said he has asked State Secretary Gerard Pelletier for assurance that the $10 million centennial grant to British Columbia is distributed equitably among provincial communities.

"We Kennedys know we should never quit," Rose Kennedy, 80, told a mostly Irish, mostly female audience at a campaign reception Monday night in Boston. "And we won't quit now." Her appearance marked the first of 12 planned receptions in support of the election of her surviving son, Edward, to the U.S. Senate. She was accompanied to the reception by her granddaughter, Kathleen Kennedy, the oldest child of the late senator Robert F. Kennedy.

Strom, who arrived here Saturday to open the Alberta government's new trade office in Tokyo, conferred with senior officials of the Japanese government.

Caloil Inc. has announced in Montreal that an application will be made today before Mr. Justice Jacques Dumoulin to review a judgment preventing the company from selling offshore oil products west of the Ottawa Valley demarcation line. John Newman, chairman of Caloil, said that if the review proves unsuccessful, the company's lawyers will prepare an appeal before the Supreme Court of Canada.

For one brief moment Monday, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce considered asking the government to outlaw tipping in Canada. The Guelph, Ont., chamber of commerce suggested in Vancouver that tipping was an "ancient custom" that has outlived its need—"on the same basis as begging. The suggestion failed, amid general laughter, to gain approval of the chamber's policy committee and was tossed out. Prof. W. T. Ewen of Guelph said he expected the laughter but insisted tipping was a "degrading practice" no longer necessary in a country where minimum wages were set by law.

Mid-East Answer Tricky To Find

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — It seems just about everybody here wants to do something about the Middle East. The question is what.

Britain was reported Monday to be getting little positive response to queries about the possibility of a Security Council meeting on the invasion of tank forces from Syria into Jordan.

Some Arab countries are reported considering the merits of throwing the whole Middle East situation into the plenary session of the General Assembly for substantive debate.

Meanwhile, the mission of Gunnar Jarring, the UN's Mideast envoy is stalled completely. The chaotic events of the last two weeks in the Middle East have resulted in the opening of the much-heralded 25th anniversary session of the General Assembly becoming the most disjointed in recent years.

WATCH MIDDLE EAST The big powers, their eyes turned to the Middle East, have been unwilling or too busy to speak. Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann of France was the exception last week. Today there are only two speakers scheduled.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp will start the Canadian round of talks today.

British officials said Monday that the armored invasion from Syria is the kind of situation that would require attention by the 15-country Security Council.

But they said it is primarily up to Jordan to call for a meeting. It is reported that Jordan and other Arab countries are unwilling to do this, at least until after today's Arab summit meeting.

SYRIA ON COUNCIL One reason for the unwillingness to have a council meeting is reported to be that Syria is the Arab bloc's representative on the council.

Some Arabs are reported to be exploring whether it would be worthwhile to put the whole matter before the 126-country assembly. There is an item on the agenda called Situation in the Middle East that would give them the opportunity. The item has been largely ignored in recent years.

Peterson Protests

VANCOUVER (CP) — Attorney-General Leslie Peterson says the press has done a public disservice by reporting an investigation by the British Columbia Securities Commission into several companies of which his brother-in-law is a director.

Mr. Peterson said in an interview Monday that investigations of this kind are usually carried out in secret. Premature disclosure, he said, can damage innocent people, hamper the work of investigators and affect the investments of shareholders in the companies involved.

"That's why the practice not only here, but elsewhere, is not to make investigations under the Securities Act a matter of public comment," he said.

In giving it publicity across Canada, you (the press) have performed a great disservice. We've had about 20 of these investigations in the last few months. You haven't had any of them public—why did you choose this one?"

Asked if the government would release the results of the investigation, Mr. Peterson said the results would be expressed in legal action, if any, taken by the government.

W. S. Irwin, head of the securities commission, later said the commission has seized the records of Canada Kelp, Apollo, Vitae and International Mutual Funds Ltd.

Malaria Cases Show Increase

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A total of 3,806 cases of malaria in the United States and Puerto Rico was reported in 1969, an increase of 1,196 cases over the previous year, the Centre for Disease Control says. The centre said the increase "was due entirely to a greater number of military cases imported from Vietnam." It said military personnel, including recently discharged veterans, accounted for 3,679 cases.

Age Of Computers Arrives In Schools

Kelowna Secondary School is one of three sites chosen by Simon Fraser University in British Columbia to participate in an educational experiment using a computer.

Peter McLaughlin, principal of KSS, said the computer-assisted instruction (CAI) program will be used for Grade 12 chemistry.

Three hundred students are eligible to take the computer course, he added.

Purpose of the experiment is to compare the results between students who use the computer regularly, those sporadically, and those who do not use it at all.

If successful, other courses, such as physics and biology, might be included in the program.

The KSS computer is directly linked with SFU's computer centre via a telephone hook-up. The CAI is a system which enables the student and teacher to engage in a one-to-one dialogue using a computer as the communication medium.

SFU initiated use of the computer in the chemistry department in 1969 as part of its continuing program of evaluating and developing more effective teaching and learning aids.

"The computer talks to the student," Mr. McLaughlin says.

"If a student makes an error, the computer asks the student to re-read the question, and if the student still occurs, the computer asks the student to consult his or her instructor."

"If a student gives a smart-aleck answer, the computer gives the same reply and tells the student to return to the question and answer properly—in the student's vernacular."

KSS received word from SFU in early 1969 about such a program, Mr. McLaughlin says.

One chemistry instructor received a brochure outlining the experiment and thought it would be worthwhile at KSS, so he informed Mr. McLaughlin. Mr. McLaughlin in turn contacted school superintendent F. J. Orme, who in turn notified the board, which approved the idea, then wrote to SFU saying it would like to participate.

It has been almost a year since the program was established to set up the course and equipment, at no cost to the school, Mr. McLaughlin adds.

The computer is provided free of charge by IBM and B.C. Telephone supplies the telephone link also free of charge. Other centres included in the program are Handsworth Secondary School in North Vancouver and the University of Victoria.

First Graders Like New Life

School is a strange new planet filled with foreboding, adventure, happiness or just downright confusion to most first-graders.

But you'd never know it from a random sampling of observations from 10 academic neophytes at DeHart Elementary School with all of 14 days scholastic experience.

Five-year-old John Graham likes arithmetic, school and Grade 1 teacher Mrs. A. R. McClure, but not necessarily in that order. Although his new 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. world "isn't hard," John has one hang-up about school. "The other kids try to steal my car, so I keep it in my pocket all the time."

More worldly and out-spoken, five-year-old James Dranchuk definitely knows what happiness in school is. "I like catching girls." He also has a fondness for arithmetic and wants to be a fireman when he grows up because "I know one in the firehouse." His father is a teacher at Dr. Knox school.

Grade 1 is no problem to Janis Wankling, who is six and wants to be a nurse when she grows up (her father is a doctor). She likes "everything" about school, "except writing on the board." What she likes most though is coloring. The worst thing about the three Rs to Lisa Weidely is "you can't talk." But she likes all subjects and wants to be a teacher like Mrs. McClure. Lisa is also six.

As diverse in opinion and impression of the little red schoolhouse, all children interviewed shared a common bond of affection and awe for teacher Mrs. McClure.

"I like to play best," said Michael Kaiser, who is six and has his grown-up sights on being an ambulance driver. He too, likes "everything" about school, especially the "work". The most vociferous was six-year-old Susan Bates. "I think it's fun. The work isn't hard and you don't have to write things like in the bigger grades." What she really likes about school are the "colored pictures" and "playing with paste-ups." She would like to be a doctor, but "maybe a teacher would be better." Her proudest accomplishment in class so far is knowing the name of her teacher "already."

Not so eloquent, Gordon Joyce also wants to be a doctor, and likes "lots of things" about school like "coloring in books." He is six. One of the quietest was Kathy Peters, a pert six-year-old, who thought school work was "too hard" but liked drawing. She wants to be a nurse.

To John Wace, six, unhappiness is staying after school. "I only had to stay once" he admitted, but still thinks Grade 1 is "good." He likes reading, drawing on the blackboard and working on paste-up books. The school currently has 29 first-graders sharing a curriculum that includes arithmetic, printing, coloring, paste-ups and phonics (a language art program of listening, reading, writing and speaking).

From the reaction of pupils, it looks like a good term.

Questionnaire Out For BBB

The promised questionnaire from the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce seeking members' opinions on a local Better Business Bureau was distributed this week. Basically the questionnaire asks members if they favor a bureau, and if they would support it financially.

It also explains some functions of a BBB and points out there are 130 bureaus in the United States and 10 in Canada.

The smallest Canadian community with a bureau is Nanaimo — operating as a branch of the Victoria bureau.

The chamber calls the BBB a non-profit society, established to maintain good business practices.

Bureaus do not give credit reports, but will supply backgrounds of companies and individuals, promote advertising and "help to eliminate unfair and fraudulent operations."

Schools Kept Up 'Like A Housewife'

By JOE DARY
Courier Staff

Like a housewife, maintaining the nearly $20 million worth of capital equipment in School District 23 (Kelowna) is a never ending job, says Fred Macklin, secretary-treasurer, who doubles as maintenance superintendent.

The $20 million figure includes 59 buildings within the school system, 22 buses, and various maintenance equipment, including a specialized grass cutter costing $10,000.

One hundred and ten people are employed in this section, which includes such tradesmen as a plumber, an electrician and painter, carpenter, a mechanic to look after the buses and custodians (janitors) and various helpers.

"We find having our own tradesmen is more economical and efficient," Mr. Macklin says.

OWN MAN

"If a boiler stops or water lines freeze during winter, we can send our plumber out to the school to correct the problem as soon as possible."

"Besides they are proud of their work and do an excellent job for us," he adds.

Mr. Macklin is assisted by William Wayne, buildings and maintenance supervisor, and Dan Bach, assistant supervisor, in the task.

Mr. Wayne, a former building contractor in Ontario and Kelowna, has been on staff for six years.

Mr. Bach is a plumber and gas man by trade. They are aided by Clarence Kruschel, manager of the Bailie Avenue maintenance and warehouse office.

MAINTAINED DAILY

The 22 buses are daily maintained by their drivers, and any mechanical work can be done at the Bailie Avenue site by bus supervisor Harold Taylor, who is a licensed mechanic and formerly operated a service station.

"The buses carry approximately 10,000 pupils a year each day to and from school, to field trips and transport sports teams to participate in sports."

"The drivers constantly ensure the buses are in good condition, and if seats are slashed, we can take the bus off the road until someone says they know how and who did the slashing."

When the students are out of school, primarily during the summer months, the schools are cleaned by crews to prepare the site for classes.

This includes the vacations during Christmas and Easter, said Mr. Macklin.

Schools are cleaned, repaired, painted and the grounds improved during the summer months.

Similar work is done during Christmas and Easter, but on a smaller scale.

In another method to cut operating expenses, the school system grows its own grass, approximately 200 acres, for the schools and board's offices. This practice has since been followed by the City of Kelowna.

Future plans call for planting flowers and other plants in a greenhouse.

A gardener is on staff, to design landscaping at schools.

The custodians, or janitors, of which there are 90, are on duty seven days a week, 24 hours a day.

They are the people who clean the schools daily.

EASY DAYS

During pleasant weather, they may dust the floors, but when it rains or during winter, they must wash the floors to get rid of the mud.

To keep the floors hygienically clean, they constantly wax the floors to help keep germs away.

In the industrial arts shops, students do a basic clean-up in the shops before they are dismissed, Mr. Macklin says.

The custodians clean the shops after the students have gone home for the day and ensure the area is hygienically clean.

"We aim to beat hospital standards," Mr. Macklin says, adding by keeping the schools polished helps create a more comfortable atmosphere for the students to work in and also teach them cleanliness.

SOME PROBLEMS

But with each season, problems occur.

For example, during the apple season, students may eat an apple, or part of an apple, and flush the core down a drain.

"Young children like to see how the core bobs in the toilet and are impressed with the flushing water," Mr. Macklin says.

"Eventually, we hear of clogged drains and have to send our plumber out to the school and often we find the cores. Even a McIntosh can clog a drain," he adds.

Every season, every day, brings new situations the schools' maintenance men must handle, and like the housewife, their work never ends.

It increases, and will continue to as the school system gets larger.

Community Chest Results Are Still Being Tabulated

Results of the combined 1970 city Community Chest and United Appeal and the Rutland and District United Appeal commercial and industrial drive have not come in yet.

"Everybody is in motion," said Raymond Fieldhouse, chairman of the commercial and industrial campaign, launched last Tuesday by 65 businessmen canvassers as part of an overall drive hoping to surpass this year's target of $60,000. Tuesday's canvass was a prelude to the Central Okanagan Community Chest's main residential blitz, scheduled for city and district Sept. 30, with callbooks Oct. 1.

About 800 canvassers are expected to take part in the one-night drive, including participation from the 19 agencies which directly benefit from appeal funds. Separate joint campaigns will be conducted by the Rutland branch under campaign chairman Trevor Miller. Agencies participating in this year's drive are: British Columbia Borsal Association; Big Brothers of British Columbia; Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society; Canadian Mental Health Association; Canadian National Institute for the Blind; Canadian Red Cross Society; Central Okanagan Boy Scouts' Association; Kelowna branch of the Navy League of Canada; Kelowna Boys' Club; Kelowna Health and Welfare Fund; Kelowna Homemakers; Okanagan Neurological Association; Salvation Army; Kelowna and District Society for the Mentally Retarded; Volunteer Recreation Services and Volunteer Bureau; Westbank Boys' Club; Canadian Council on Social Development and the Voluntary Association for Health and Welfare of British Columbia.

Special Courses Planned For Okanagan Orchardists

Arrangements are being made for a series of courses for orchardists to be carried out this fall in Kelowna. Details are not completed, but tentatively the information is:

Horticulture course—Nov. 2 to 13, to cover orchard practices, irrigation, pruning, pest control, nursery techniques and grape growing. This will include all the latest knowledge on these subjects, and will help in deciding how orchards are to develop.

Farm management course—Nov. 16 to Dec. 4. Farm practices and economics, financial management and cost accounting. This will be a completely new course for orchardists, and will help take a more informed approach to the economic problems that confront both in the orchard and beyond.

Farm mechanics course—Dec. 7 to 23, designed to give the grower a good working knowledge of maintenance and minor repairs required for diesel and gas tractors and air-cooled engines. This will be more advanced than previous courses, and will include hydraulics.

In these days of high cost equipment and expensive repairs a basic knowledge such as this course will give should save hard dollars on the farm.

These courses are being sponsored by the Canada department of manpower in co-operation with the B.C. department of agriculture and the department of education and with liaison with the orchard labor committee. They will be day time courses, probably 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. each week day. Accepting the fact few growers can afford to take this much time off from their work, training allowances will be paid to those accepted and living allowances to those away from home.

A further bulletin will be sent as soon as arrangements have been completed, but in view of the busy season ahead, it is felt advance notice will help growers think this over and make tentative plans if necessary. This schedule should leave enough time to get on with your pruning after the new year.

B.C. BRIEFS

B.C. Plane Missing

WILLIAMS LAKE, B.C. (CP)—Aircraft from the Canadian Forces base at Comox were searching this morning for a light plane overdue on a flight from Williams Lake to Nimpo Lake in the Cariboo area of British Columbia.

Search officials said only the pilot, who has not been identified, is believed to be aboard. The float-equipped Cessna-180 was due to have arrived from the 175-mile flight Monday afternoon.

Officials said the aircraft is equipped with a Dart-2 homing device and Armed Forces searchers hope to pick up a signal from it.

MAN CONVICTED

COURTENAY (CP)—Neil Clifford Baldwin, 41, of Campbell River, was convicted here Monday of his 54th criminal offence. Convicted of false pretences, Baldwin asked the judge for another chance. Judge John Ryland gave him six months instead, saying he had never seen anything like Baldwin's record.

LABOR APPOINTMENT

ABBOTSFORD, B.C. (CP)—Glen Haddrell, president of the Housing Co-op in this Fraser Valley community, has been appointed national organizer for co-operative housing by the Canadian Labor Congress.

BICYCLES STOLEN

VANCOUVER (CP)—One effect of the summer cycling craze has been the regular theft of an average four or five 10-speed bicycles, valued at from $80 to $125, each day in the city, police said.

INDIANS HALT GRAPE HARVEST

The Indians are also objecting to what they call the company's failure to live up to other terms of the agreement by not hiring enough Indian labor and failing to maintain a fence around the property.

Mr. Derrickson said the lease calls on the company to hire Indian labor whenever possible.

Indian leaders claim the majority of workers hired at the vineyard are white or Japanese and Indians are hired "only in desperation."

Mr. Derrickson said Osoyoos officials illustration of good Indian-management relations.

He said the Osoyoos band started leases at $60 an acre and the majority of employees in the South Okanagan grape industry are Indians.

"One main reason we leased land for vineyards was so our band members would have some employment opportunities," Mr. Derrickson said, "it pretty hard for them to get jobs off the reservation."

He said the band intends to make this a test case.

A spokesman from the Department of Indian Affairs office in Vernon said today although the federal government was aware of the lease, it planned to take no action in the dispute, which he termed a "local feud."

He denied the lease had been signed by the department without approval by the owners. "We are aware there is a lease, but as far as I know it's all legal and tidy," the spokesman said.

He added if there was some disagreement the Indians were free to act through the courts and the department would serve only in an advisory capacity.

Contacted early today, Mr. Stewart said he had no knowledge of any closure of his firm's vineyards, but added if it were true some action would have to be taken to open the road.

He said until the story was confirmed he could not make any comment on the situation.

The Derricksons are relying on the ripened grape crop to give strength to their campaign. They say they will not open the road until the problem is settled and will not allow any picking or transporting of grapes out of the fields until their demands are answered.

City Motorists Escape Injury

A two-car accident at the intersection of Bernard Avenue and Glenmore Street resulted in about $800 damages and no injuries to drivers Joseph Unser and Samuel Kreiger, both of Kelowna. The mishap occurred at 8:45 p.m. Monday.

Local RCMP are investigating a mishap involving a pedestrian and a motorcycle driven by Barry Ketcheson of Vancouver. The mishap occurred at 12:25 p.m. Monday in which a Kelowna woman was injured.

Some people are show offs, but then some are in excellent physical shape. Ken Harding, who completed the 20 mile pool loop walkathon Saturday, had a sauna, bath immediately on completing the walk, went home, ate, changed clothes and went dancing for two hours. He said he never missed a dance. His secret: he jogs a mile every morning.

Holiday often find names of towns and villages interesting, but a Kelowna couple on vacation in Alberta recently found Entrance, a bit misleading. Guided by some vague verbal instructions on how to find a 50-year-old store reputed to have some of the original stock on hand, they made a turn into a narrow side road, when they saw the sign "Entrance, 400 yards." Not until later did they discover that the weather beaten house they circled, was actually Entrance, a hamlet post office in Alberta.

One of the most embarrassing things that can happen to a mother is to have her tiny daughter smash a baby bottle on a restaurant floor. What makes it even worse, as a Kelowna woman discovered the other day, is to have her husband lean over and say, just loud enough for everyone else to hear: "I told you not to change over from plastic bottles."

Ignoring the weather is one thing, but outright defiance takes a real man. Somebody, however, has the stuff it takes of a night on Bernard Avenue during a recent rainstorm is any indication. Rained half into a sidewalk waste receptacle was what looked like a fairly good rain coat.

More Rain And Snow?

A persistent cold front expected to move into the Interior today could bring some snow flurries at high levels tonight and Wednesday, the weather office reports.

A system moving across the province is expected to bring some rain and strong winds along with the cold front. High and low Monday was 65 and 46, with .08 inches of precipitation.

Low tonight and high Wednesday should be 45 and 60.

Capsule Form District News

REMANDED

Joseph Unser of Kelowna, was remanded to Friday on a charge of failing to register a vehicle within 10 days. He entered no plea before Judge D. M. White in provincial court today. Operating a truck without proper carriers licence brought a fine of $100 to Albert Rothery of Calgary, who pleaded guilty to the charge in provincial court Monday.

QUIET NIGHT

The Kelowna Fire Brigade spent a quiet night, with only three routine ambulance calls and one false alarm reported at 2:59 a.m. today at the intersection of Harvey Avenue and Ethel Street.

WEAK FIGHTING STRONG

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Tom Campbell says Vancouver police are losing the fight against crime because they are short-handed. He says the 752-member force must be strengthened by at least 50 men effectively to meet the challenge from Vancouver's criminal and hoodlum elements.

KELOWNA FACTS

Royal Avenue was named from its presence on plan 535, Aug. 17, 1908.

STEWART REWARDED

Presentation of an award of merit was made to Ald. Richard Stewart at the Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention in Penitence on Thursday by Don Benson of New Westminster, field director of the B.C. Sports Federation. The award, one of the comparatively few given in the province this year, was earned by the outstanding contribution Kelowna and Ald. Stewart made to the first annual Festival of Sports in May. The festival, a perpetual and annual event sponsored by the British Columbia department of travel industry, will be featured from May 20 to June 7, 1971.

How Does City Rank In National Safety?

Kelowna has registered a 35 per cent total score of a possible 100 points in the 1970 Canadian Auto Association and American Auto Association pedestrian safety program appraisal.

A report from the CAA-AAA evaluation based on a 10,000 to 25,000 population group lists three 1969 pedestrian deaths and 12 injuries, for a pedestrian safety program total score of 44 per cent. The death and injury figures represent a 15.8 and 63 per cent average, based on death and injury rate of 100,000 population figure each. This compares with a standard rating in respective categories of 5.1 and 85 per cent.

In other areas of the report, the city's score in percentages of a possible 100 points was: accident records, 86 per cent; legislation, 100 per cent; enforcement, 23 per cent; traffic engineering, 31 per cent; safety program co-ordination, 40 per cent; school traffic safety, 43 per cent; and public education and information, 36 per cent.

Records of accidents were almost completely maintained by the city, with the exception of pedestrian actions in injury accidents, and measured fully up to standard legislation performance. In enforcement, the city fell down in pedestrian arrests for crossing against a traffic signal, or crossing between signals or failing to yield the right-of-way. A 2.6 per cent average was recorded for driver arrests in violating pedestrian rights-of-way compared to a standard performance of two per cent and made no report of arrests for parking in restricted school areas where the standard performance was listed at 14.6 per cent.

No reports of charges being laid by the city for intoxicated pedestrians were made, compared to the standard performance of 95 per cent. No report was made as to whether pedestrian rights and duties are included in police in-service and recruiting programs, but the city does include pedestrian safety regulation instruction in a driver training school.

In the traffic engineering classification no professional traffic engineer counselling was provided and no percentage of marked crosswalk intersections was reported, in comparison with the standard performance of 50 per cent. No report was made of intersections with special pedestrian signals, compared to the standard performance of 30 per cent. The city scored 100 per cent in reporting of arterial street mileage, with lighting meeting accepted standards, and 33 per cent of an accepted 90 per cent for total miles of streets with sidewalks on one side. The city also scored 100 per cent in inventory of traffic control devices within the last year, and 100 per cent for percentage of signs, signals and markings relating to pedestrians installed in 1969 conforming to the manual of uniform traffic control devices for streets and highways.

FAREWELL

Kelowna fared well in safety program co-ordination in all but percentage of committee activity relative to pedestrian safety, as well as the number of meetings held by sub-committees relating to pedestrian safety (12 was the standard performance where the city had none). The city was near top in school traffic safety, except in percentage of eligible elementary, public and private schools with safety patrol programs which were none, compared to the standard performance of 87 per cent. The city also failed to score in percentage of high schools, public schools and parochial schools offering a minimum standard driver education program, where the standard performance is 35 per cent.

The city scored nothing for public education of pedestrian regulations through local news media, and 35 per cent of a possible 100 per cent for evaluation of description of pedestrian programs carried out in 1969.

ATTENTION

Pedestrian program areas requiring attention, suggested the report, included enforcement, traffic engineering, safety program co-ordination and school traffic safety. The study also recommended that special studies and surveys be conducted on specific problem areas to "clearly define the problem, needs and corrective action to be taken." Local pedestrian control ordinances should be enforced to require pedestrians to be "more responsible for their actions in traffic" and traffic engineering facilities such as sidewalks, crosswalks, street lighting, signs and signals should be provided wherever needed.

The report suggests also that pedestrian night time accident records be kept to indicate accident locations so high priority can be given to those locations in the city's street lighting improvement program, and one school person be assigned the responsibility of supervising safety education in schools and adequate consideration in school curriculums.

A citizens' safety committee should co-ordinate and supervise a year-round public information and education program, designed to keep local residents constantly aware of the need for traffic alertness, whether as drivers or pedestrians.

City Motorists Escape Injury

A two-car accident at the intersection of Bernard Avenue and Glenmore Street resulted in about $800 damages and no injuries to drivers Joseph Unser and Samuel Kreiger, both of Kelowna. The mishap occurred at 8:45 p.m. Monday.

Local RCMP are investigating a mishap involving a pedestrian and a motorcycle driven by Barry Ketcheson of Vancouver. The mishap occurred at 12:25 p.m. Monday in which a Kelowna woman was injured.

Some people are show offs, but then some are in excellent physical shape. Ken Harding, who completed the 20 mile pool loop walkathon Saturday, had a sauna, bath immediately on completing the walk, went home, ate, changed clothes and went dancing for two hours. He said he never missed a dance. His secret: he jogs a mile every morning.

Holiday often find names of towns and villages interesting, but a Kelowna couple on vacation in Alberta recently found Entrance, a bit misleading. Guided by some vague verbal instructions on how to find a 50-year-old store reputed to have some of the original stock on hand, they made a turn into a narrow side road, when they saw the sign "Entrance, 400 yards." Not until later did they discover that the weather beaten house they circled, was actually Entrance, a hamlet post office in Alberta.

Nixon's European Visit Could End Up Profitable

After initial expressions of surprise and puzzlement, many observers now apparently have come around to the belief that President Nixon's sudden decision to visit Europe this month could be profitable from a political as well as a diplomatic point of view, according to a Canadian Press report from Washington.

In the aftermath of the unexpected announcement came a great deal of head-scratching about the timing—at the height of campaigning for vital November congressional elections.

Also, the choice of stops seemed a somewhat strangely mixed bag—Britain, Italy, Spain, the Pope, the U.S. 6th Fleet and Tito.

Now, having thought it over, the pundits are ready to concede that the whole venture is a rather shrewd package with vast potential for at least short-term benefits, barring a Middle East catastrophe such as civil war in Jordan, that could wreck or even force a cancellation of the trip.

From a domestic point of view, the Democrats, hoping to cling to control of both houses of Congress in the Nov. 3 elections, will take aim at Nixon as the president who failed to bring peace any closer in the Middle East or Southeast Asia.

He will be a difficult target, however, as he travels in Europe generating headlines about his peacemaking missions far and wide.

While he continues this posture of eminent statesman through a series of meetings with heads of state attending the United Nations General Assembly, Vice-President Spiro Agnew will take care of the bare-knuckles politics, lambasting the Democrats as "radical liberals" responsible for most of the country's social and economic ills.

Diplomatically, the Nixon trip is seen by many as an attempt to recoup some of the ground the U.S. lost in its recent miscalculation of the Middle East crisis.

In the state department's eagerness to move toward a settlement, it tended to overlook the growing Soviet influence on, and even control of, Egyptian air defence until the buildup brought the whole peace initiative tumbling down.

Now, observers suggest, Nixon's showing of the flag in the Mediterranean through his visit to the 6th Fleet, his meeting with General Franco after recent renewal of the U.S.-Spanish agreements for American bases in Spain, and his consultations with Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia, cannot help but have a salutary effect in Moscow.

The reading of such observers in Washington is that Nixon's trip—emphasizing U.S. support of Israel, a stern posture in the Mediterranean—will be doubly beneficial.

The hope is that it will strengthen Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir in dealing with the hawkish inclinations of some of her cabinet colleagues, while also warning the Kremlin against overplaying its hand in its military buildup in Egypt.

Meanwhile, barring utter disaster in a civil war in Jordan, the U.S. show of force could perhaps help the more responsible Arab governments talk reason with so far headless Palestinian guerrilla forces.

Who Rules The Seas?

(Victoria Colonist)

According to the authoritative Institute of Strategic Studies in London the United States remains undisputed ruler of the international seas.

Though the U.S.S.R. stands second on the list, the spread of naval strength afloat between the two superpowers is considerable. The United States has an active navy of 780 vessels grouped in four fleets containing 16 giant strike carriers, while the Soviet Union has 660 warships, including 370 submarines of which many are diesel-powered short-range types.

Knowledgeable experts, however, are quick to claim that present numbers are less significant than the question of what the Russians are up to. They point out that in less than 15 years the Soviet Union's naval expansion has totally changed its historic role as a land power.

The present Russian naval strategy appears to be to secure short-term political advantages, especially in the Mediterranean where its fleet has been made up of as many as 25 vessels at times. Though heavily outweighed by the U.S. Sixth Fleet there the Russians have made good political use of their warships by using anchorages off Algeria, Syria, Libya and the United Arab Republic at moments of high Middle East tension.

The Institute also reports that the Russian navy has become a semi-permanent presence in the Indian Ocean. At present, there are only two survey ships there and a landing-craft for marines stationed off the South Yemen island of Socatra. But last year Soviet nuclear submarines, guided-missile destroyers and other high-powered vessels exercised in the region with the clear intention of impressing East African states.

The London Observer believes that this increasing naval activity is designed to give notice to the Americans that United States Polaris submarines may not forever be able to cruise the seas within range of targets in the heart of Russia.

While there are many Canadians who might see little importance in whether the U.S. or the U.S.S.R. controls the seas in years ahead, there are others who will see in this present development a serious threat to freedom all over the world.

The United States, in the main, has not abused its position as the world's greatest naval power—any more than did Britain when she was mistress of the seas.

Would Russia in the same circumstances be as generous?

IT HAPPENED IN CANADA

LEAD NIBBLING

Lead Poisoning Common In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six-year-old Carl Richardson was lying on his bed when his mother came in to give him his regular dose of medicine he took to combat a congenital blood disorder.

"I said, 'Come on, honey, come and take your medicine,'" recalls Brenda Richardson of that day over a year ago. "But he acted like he didn't hear me. I waved my hand in front of his face. He couldn't see me."

The Richardsons took their son to a hospital. When the symptoms passed, Carl went home. That night he had convulsions and returned to the hospital. In the next five months, Carl had to return to the hospital six times. But it wasn't until Carl was taken to Washington's Children's Hospital that doctors found out what was wrong.

Carl had experienced a lead poisoning seizure. The amount of lead in his blood was 10 times the level considered to be a case of clinical lead poisoning. Carl had consumed the lead by eating paint chips from the walls of the family's southeast Washington home. His case is not unusual.

MANY AFFECTED
The Battelle Memorial Institute of Columbus estimates 250,000 youngsters aged six months to 3½ years, mostly slum children, are carrying high amounts of lead in their blood, mainly from nibbling on paint chips. This compares with the 100,000 persons of all ages who contracted some form of measles in 1967, the latest year for which figures are available.

The fortunate among the children with high lead levels are listless and irritable with nausea, vomiting or frequent headaches.

Some, like Carl, suffer seizures or convulsions. Some endure irreversible brain damage, and some die.

Of the 122 Americans listed by the National Centre for Health Statistics as dying of lead poisoning in 1966 and 1967, 77 were children under five. But officials say these statistics don't begin to measure the problem because lead poisoning frequently goes undetected.

Says Dr. Lawrence A. Plumlee of the U.S. Public Health Service: "We believe that this problem is acutely widespread where you have a lot of deteriorating housing built before 1940."

The Second World War era is when manufacturers stopped using lead in interior paints and window putty. But Plumlee estimates 80 per cent of the housing in big cities still has lead paint on the walls.

Doctors say vast numbers of children between the ages of one and five seem to have an irrepressible urge to inspect everything by putting it in their mouths. The sweet taste of lead paint chips from the walls of old houses is particularly inviting to these children.

Manufacturing Output Per Man Is Lower Than Other Countries

OTTAWA (CP) — The Economic Council of Canada says output-per-man in Canada is a manufacturing is as much as one-third lower than in other countries, although product prices are as much as 10 per cent higher.

The council made the observation in a study of productive efficiency in Canadian industries and services during 20 post-war years and recommends that both government and business combine forces to correct this failing.

The study, part of the national advisory body's seventh annual review of the economy, finds that Canadian enterprises with high efficiency ratings—electrical products and leather manufacturing—are two-thirds so in orbit around larger-scale markets that facilitate increased specialization in production which, in turn, promotes relatively high levels of productivity.

"And the latter, in turn, tend to permit relatively lower prices in comparison with the United States, thus laying the basis for more competitive and sturdier growth," the council says.

While studies of components of growth in various industries are incomplete, analysis indicates that high rates of productivity are not necessarily dependent on heavy capital investment or big-scale operations.

MUST CUT PRICES

To compete in world markets, Canadian industry will have to aim for low costs and stable prices. Analysis shows both are associated with high productivity.

Among fast-growth industries in Canada, services and construction showed the greatest rate of price inflation and low rates of growth in productive efficiency, the study shows.

Both depended for growth mainly on expanded labor forces.

The services—finance, insurance, real estate, community, business and personal—have grown to account for about 60 per cent of both employment and output in Canada.

But measurement is difficult for service industries, analysis indicates their productive efficiency declined in the 20-year survey period.

In wholesale and retail trade, which grew to account for one of every six Canadian employees, efficiency growth was slow compared to the whole economy.

Mining, includes petroleum, has become more dependent on capital investment for output growth. Employment was static and advances in productivity were slight in the decade to 1968.

TWO BETTER THAN U.S.

Only two Canadian industries—sawmills and steel—among about a dozen compared showed up as more efficient than U.S. counterparts when output was measured against input in the form of labor, capital, fuel and materials.

Sawmills were rated 21-per cent more efficient than U.S. counterparts, the iron and steel industry 11 per cent more productive.

Canadian manufacture of veneers and plywood was only marginally less efficient, but Canadian wool mills were one-third less productive.

The pulp and paper industry was nine per cent less efficient, other paper-makers 15 per cent, petroleum refining 17 per cent, slaughtering and meat packing 15 per cent, dairies 12 per cent, and both confectionery and rubber production 10 per cent below U.S. standards.

C of C Yearly Award Winners

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Chamber of Commerce Monday announced the winners of its yearly awards for programs designed to promote a better public understanding of the chamber's work.

The awards are made in pollution categories. The winners: Under $10,000—Maple Creek, Sask.; $10,000 to $50,000—Waltham, Ont.; $50,000 to $100,000—Moncton, N.B.; $100,000 to $250,000—Regina; more than $250,000—Winnipeg.

The awards were announced at the chamber's annual convention here.

HOUSE SAVED

LONDON (CP) — A building which was the home of writers Virginia and Leonard Woolf from 1915 to 1924 has been saved from demolition, at least until an acceptable plan for a new building on the site in suburban Richmond has been presented. Later occupied by a local conservative party group, the structure won its reprieve from Richmond's planning committee, which said it must know what will replace the 18th century building before agreeing to demolition.

New Zealand Labor Peace Finally Comes To An End

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — The highly developed system of labor relations on which New Zealand has prided itself for over half a century is in a virtual state of collapse.

New Zealand has long had a reputation for advanced industrial legislation. Features of it have been widely adopted in many parts of the world.

But today labor relations are in disarray, strikes and lockouts are rife, and the country is groping in bewilderment for a new basis for industrial organization.

New Zealand was a pioneer of the system of conciliation and arbitration of labor disputes with an act passed as long ago as 1894. Machinery built up in following years led to a structure accepted by employers and employees alike for control of wages and conditions in all industries.

The arrangement was for representatives of employers and of trade unions to attend meetings presided over by a conciliation commissioner. The commissioner had no power to make orders, but attempts to promote agreements.

If complete agreement could not be reached, the points not resolved were referred to an arbitration court, which had power to make awards binding on all parties.

JUDGE MADE DECISION

The court consisted of one nominee of employers, one of employees, and a presiding judge, who in practice usually made the effective decisions.

As well as making awards in individual industries, the court was given power to consider and issue wage orders affecting all industries. Compulsory unionism made its decrees of concern to most workers throughout the country.

On the whole the arrangement worked well. There were still occasional stoppages but they were generally less serious and shorter than in most countries. Workers obtained good living standards, and discipline in industry was satisfactory.

Yet the system has broken down. It now appears that it remained static too long, in the belief that over the years an ideal system had been created. It did not cater adequately for changing times.

A crisis came a couple of years ago when an application for an order increasing wages across the board was rejected by the court on the grounds that economic conditions were inauspicious. The unions had confidently expected a substantial increase.

The unions declared that the court was no longer fulfilling its function. They said they had lost confidence in it as a controlling body and henceforth would rely on direct bargaining with employers.

WRACKED BY STRIFE

In practice that has meant steep demands followed almost at once, if unsuccessful, by strike action. One industry after another has been wracked by strife.

Continuous stoppages and disputes have brought a correction of some faults in the wage structure which the court had not altered and over which the unions have long held grievances.

But the public has suffered from incessant unpredictable stoppages which have caused much inconvenience and brought heavy loss to some sections of the community.

Temper of employers and employees are wearing thin.

Several times there has been danger of a major industrial upheaval spreading to many industries.

Labor Minister T. P. Shand died soon after winning a big majority in the general election last November, and his successor, Deputy Prime Minister J. R. Marshall, has been given an impossibly heavy burden. Not only is he also minister of justice, but in addition to the labor portfolio he is minister of overseas trade, requiring frequent visits abroad.

At a time when his full attention is needed in the industrial crisis, he spends weeks out of the country on equally pressing trade matters.

The government has been accused of lack of leadership in seeking a new industrial relations system in line with the times, but says it cannot take decisive action until workers and employers make up their minds where they want to go.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Revolts Strain Indian Democracy

By PHILIP DEANE

Foreign Affairs Analyst

The democratic institutions of which India is so proud, are crumbling under the pressure of the misery that has led thousands and thousands of peasants either to become guerrillas or to seize the lands of the rich.

More than 20,000 leaders of the "seizure" movement have been arrested recently by the Indian government, among them are the leaders of the pro-Moscow Communist party and various socialist leaders.

These men—the pro-Moscow Communists—are not militant at all: Moscow has seen to that, insisting that they do not make trouble for the government in New Delhi. But the pro-Chinese Communist party of India (there are two Communist parties) has been winning adherents with its guerrilla movement, called the Naxalite movement.

The Naxalites, who take their name from the region of Maxalbari where their movement began, are plain brigands to their opponents and Robin Hoods to their admirers, robbing the rich to give to the poor. The pro-Peking Communists lead the movement, being extremely eager to embarrass New Delhi and also to expose the non-revolutionary nature of Moscow's communism.

Because the Naxalites have been so successful and have so gained in popularity, the pro-

Moscow Communists risked losing all their appeal. They have, consequently, climbed on the land seizure or squatting movement bandwagon. This was started by non-violent socialist disciples of Gandhi many years ago. It began by the use of moral pressure to convince landlords that they should give up part of their holdings. When moral pressure did not work, squatting on unused land was substituted.

The unused lands, however, were generally unproductive and the pro-Chinese Communists went a step further and began actually robbing the rich. The pro-Moscow Communists have adopted a sort of compromise—they seize productive land from absentee landlords and from Maharajahs.

It is at this stage that the police stepped in and began arresting the leaders of the seizure movement; these leaders were, after all, inciting people to what can only be called theft. The arrests are embarrassing for the Indian government which does not really like absentee landlords; but land reform is a provincial responsibility (they have provinces that they call states) and the regions in which the seizures occur are governed by conservatives. So long as the extreme poverty of the peasants continues, the Naxalites and other Robin Hoods will continue to flourish.

Why Get Involved? Is Topic Chosen By Sparkling Speaker

With the theme Communication through involvement, the Kelowna Toastmistress Club started its fall season on Sept. 16 with an exhilarating swing into the 70's under the chairmanship of June Carter.

Many visitors were welcomed and Mrs. T. S. Pittendrigh set the stage with a delightful inroduction to the highlights of the evening: guest speaker, Mrs. William Sullivan, who enthralled her audience with her personality, zest for life and humor.

The title of her speech was Why Get Involved and with great enthusiasm, she convinced her rapt audience that it was a privilege to live in Canada, especially Kelowna and that women of all walks of life should, and must, and, most easily, get involved in the community. To quote Mrs. Sullivan, "If you do nothing and wait for an urge to get involved with people, you may at the end of a lifetime find that the only thing you have been involved in—is waiting."

Mrs. George Strohman received The Lydia Stranks Merit Award, which is a trophy presented to a member contributing most to the program, each meeting.

The Win Thom speech award, presented to the best speaker of the evening was not awarded, since the best speaker of the evening, Mrs. Sullivan, was not a member.

Kelowna Toastmistress meetings are held at the Royal Anne on the first and third Wednesdays of each month at 8 p.m. The next meeting is Oct. 7 and all ladies interested in getting involved are cordially welcomed.

ANN LANDERS

Change Chow Time 'Maw' Talk Will Be Cut

Dear Ann Landers: My gripe is giving me nervous indigestion. The kids are bothered by it, too. Maybe you can come up with a solution.

Everything runs like clockwork around our house. My husband is a nut about scheduling. (Herb used to be a Master Sergeant). Well, dinner at our place is at six o'clock sharp. You can set your watch by it. So every night, promptly at 6:05, the telephone rings. It's my mother-in-law. Herb talks for 15 minutes—sometimes 20. In fact, he had a long cord put on the phone so he can talk to her from the dinner table. He cradles the phone between his ear and shoulder and says, "Yes, Ma. No, Ma. No foolin', Ma." She tells him all the family garbage (he could care less) and reads him parts of letters from relatives as well as items from the church bulletin. Now and then she starts to read him a letter from your column. When she does this he says, "I saw it, Ma."

I have asked Herb a dozen times to please ask his mother to call a half hour later. He says, "I wouldn't hurt her for the world." In the meantime every night our dinner is interrupted. The kids and I hate it. What's the answer?—A Gripe From Guam.

Dear Griper: The answer is so obvious I'm surprised you haven't thought of it. What's so sacred about six o'clock? Get the short cord back on the telephone and re-schedule chow for 6:20.

Dear Ann Landers: This is from a bewildered dad who needs a level-headed woman's point of view.

Recently I moved my family from Richmond, Virginia, to Southern California. As we were packing to leave Virginia I happened to walk through my 16-year-old daughter's bedroom. She was in the process of dressing and was wearing only a pair of panties and a bra. My daughter was very embarrassed and immediately grabbed her kimono. I was pleased with her modesty.

Three months later this same girl walked into our living room while guests were present. She was wearing a bikini which exposed half of her bottom. If she had leaned over she'd have been 95 per cent naked.

I later asked my daughter for an explanation of her sudden absence of modesty. She said, "It's just a matter of fashion. Bikinis are in. Everybody's wearing them." Is this change in her due to peer pressure, or the wish to be accepted, or geography—or what?—Pop-Eyed.

Dear Pop: You cannot carry her back to Ol' Virginny—where, incidentally, 16-year-olds are also wearing bikinis—nor can you insist that the girl wear a World War I bathing suit. Heaven forbid! But you do have the right to expect your 16-year-old daughter to wear clothes in the living room—unless, of course, that's where the swimming pool is, which in California is not unheard of.

Dear Ann Landers: What does a 22-year-old, slightly overweight, but meticulous girl do about a kind, considerate, faithful boy friend whose idea of a compliment is as follows: "You sweat less than my fat girl I know."—Frankly Nettled.

Dear Net: Accept the fact that your boyfriend is no poet and settle for kindness, consideration and fidelity. You could do worse. Many girls who write to me have.

HITHER and YON

Employees and agents of Fruit Growers' Mutual and their families enjoyed a camp-out at Easter Seal Camp at Winfield during the weekend. More than 100 persons enjoyed the event—a first for this association of people, with families from the Kootenays, Cranbrook, Osoyoos, Revelstoke, as well as the Valley taking part; some arriving Friday night. Many arrived until Sunday.

Chief organizer for the very successful affair was Roy Stickney, FGM sales manager, with Mrs. Ian Fraser in charge of registration.

Other committee helpers included Rick Woolman of Winfield, Mike Leibel, Kamloops, and Bill Ramsey of Kelowna in charge of the food arrangements which included turkey and the trimmings.

Roy Smith and Jim Wilson of Kelowna and Eric Woolman of Winfield were in charge of entertainment with Georges Colpron, Robert Woolner and Norman Logan, all of Kelowna, looking after grounds and rules.

Games for the children and swimming and other sports were arranged by John Yost of Penticton; Mike Shiskin and Margaret Reynolds, all of Kelowna, with Edna Stregger and Bruce Pallister, both of Kelowna, taking care of first aid.

Mrs. William Angrove left Monday for her home in Vancouver after enjoying a visit here with her sister, Helen De-war, a guest at the Joseph Benjamin Residence. Mrs. Angrove was delighted to meet a patient of 50 years ago, who recognized her on the street. Through the 94-year-old Mrs. Langueboe of Naramata, she also renewed the acquaintance of another former patient, Mrs. Laidlaw.

Gillian McKenzie, daughter of Mrs. Nancy Mackenzie has just returned from a year working in Montreal and Quebec and travelling in Europe with two Montreal friends. Gillian, after two years of secretarial work, has returned to enter the British Columbia Institute of Technology under the nursing program.

Home for a visit with her family, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Minchen was their daughter Lynda. She has now returned to Vancouver to continue her 4th year of studies in biology at the University of British Columbia. Lynda was the recipient of a scholarship and several bursaries this year. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack A. Buttice.

Frank Horaks Honored On 40th

A banquet in honor of the 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Horak of Kelowna was held recently at the Ukrainian parish hall on Barlee Road.

A corsage of pink carnations and a carnation boutonniere were presented to the honored guests. The head table was decorated with orange gladioli and white carnations centered by a beautifully decorated cake which was cut by the honorees.

Master-of-ceremonies for the happy event was Frank Kirschner of Kelowna.

After 8 p.m. a very enjoyable evening was spent at the Okanagan Mission home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Horak on DeHart Road. Many lovely gifts were received from their relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Horak were married in Balgonie, Sask. on Sept. 8, 1930 and resided in Saskatchewan until moving to Kelowna in 1949 where they have resided since. The Horaks have two sons, both in Kelowna.

(Makes 4 pints)

- 1 pound (4 cups) fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained.
 - 3 pounds pears (about 20 small pears) cored and diced but not peeled.
 - 3 cups granulated sugar
 - 1 cup water
- Combine all ingredients and bring to a boil. Cook at a boil while stirring, until thick, about 25 to 30 minutes. Spoon while hot into sterilized glasses. Cover top with melted paraffin. Store in a cool, dry, dark place. Nice served with hot bread, pancakes, waffles, French toast, or over ladyfingers or fruit compotes.

KELOWNA GUESTS ATTEND WEDDING

Phyllis Karen, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bruce of Kamloops, formerly of Revelstoke and Kelowna and Donald Lloyd Bennison, son of Mrs. Edith Bennison and the late Lloyd Bennison of Revelstoke, were united in marriage in a late August wedding in St. Peter's Anglican Church, Revelstoke. The ceremony was solemnized by Rev. Jack Greenhalgh, assisted by Rev. Canon R. Brown of Kelowna. Among the many out-of-town guests were a number of Kelowna families, which included Mr. and Mrs. Cedric Stringer and family; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Harding and family; Mr. and Mrs. R. Alexander; Mr. and Mrs. A. Taylor and family of Westbank; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bunce and family and Canon and Mrs. R. Brown. Mr. Stringer was master of ceremonies and Ken Harding proposed the toast to the bride.

Ken Kirk needs $3,000 to turn an old friend into a passing acquaintance.

Over the last few years Ken has gotten to know Harry, his neighbourhood mechanic, pretty well.

Because Ken has spent a small fortune keeping his old car running.

But one look at his latest estimate was enough to convince him that Harry was right all along.

He did need a new car. Now if he only had $3000 to buy one.

Ken should come to the Commerce and arrange for a Bankplan loan. Then he'd only see Harry for gas.

At the Commerce, we'll do all we can to help Ken buy his new car.

We can do the same for you. With a Commerce Bankplan loan.

And a sensible repayment plan to fit your own situation.

Whether you need money for a new car, a truck or a trailer, ask for a Bankplan loan. And find out how more of us do more for you at the Commerce.

Noise Pollution May Be Worse Than All Of Other Varieties

MONTREAL (CP) — Noise pollution soon may become more alarming than either air or water pollution, Cecil Z. Monaghan, general manager of the Edmonton water and sanitation department, said Monday.

Mr. Monaghan said in an interview noise not only is more difficult to monitor and control "but it is with us all year round."

"Noise is tough to regulate because often it is not the machine but its operator which is responsible for disrupting the environment."

Mr. Monaghan, an observer at the City of Montreal seminar on air and noise pollution, said "small motorcycles are not that loud, but give them to people who like speed and the sound of power, and they become a major cause of noise pollution."

CRITICIZES MEETING

Christian de Laet, secretary-general of the Canadian Council of Resource Ministers, described the Montreal meeting as "nothing more than a collection of pious verbalized beatings mouthed to avoid doing anything about pollution."

Mr. De Laet said the seminar is a makeshift attempt to add lustre of social awareness to the city's image.

He said in an interview that Montreal's glamor projects and simultaneous neglect of social welfare have created a credibility gap with the average citizen.

"To be of real use, conferences must present resolutions. They must be forums where concerned people can speak with a common voice.

"We must continually ask ourselves what social values are involved and what we are trying to achieve."

"It is unacceptable in a city such as Montreal where over 30 per cent of the citizens are on welfare, vast sums of money are spent on the elite—on widening roads so a few people can visit easily."

Mayor Jean Drapeau announced the three-day seminar on pollution Aug. 27. Its timing coincides with an Ontario-Quebec pollution seminar in Montebello, Que., which has been planned for months.

MAMMOTH TRAFFIC JAM

DARTFORD, England (CP) — Police were called to clear a jumbo-sized traffic hazard on a Kent highway. Two elephants being transported by truck to a new zoo were restive and threatened to break loose. Eventually they were calmed using the drivers' sandwiches and soft words from the police.

Retail Prices Shift A Little

OTTAWA (CP) — Retail prices in cities across Canada shifted only marginally during August in line with the standard performance of the all-Canada consumer price index.

The 10 separate urban indexes for August, reported today by Dominion Bureau of Statistics, show narrow fluctuations from July. They range between declines of two-fifths of one per cent in Montreal and Ottawa and increases of one-fifth of one per cent in St. John's, Nfld., Saint John, N.B., and Edmonton and Calgary.

Two of the 10 indexes cover two cities—Edmonton-Calgary and Saskatoon-Regina.

There were wider variations in the range of increases since August, 1969. The combined Saskatoon-Regina index was only 1.4-per-cent higher than a year earlier; Halifax prices showed an increase of 3.2 per cent in the 12 months.

The all-Canada price index for August, published last week, was 2.8 per cent above August, 1969.

That means roughly that a list of goods and services valued at $10 in August, 1969, had risen in price to $10.28 by last month.

By the same measurement, $10 shopping lists of August, 1969, in each of the urban regions had advanced in a year as follows:

St. John's, Nfld. $10.17; Halifax $10.35; Saint John $10.20; Montreal $10.13; Ottawa $10.30; Toronto $10.15; Winnipeg $10.28; Saskatoon-Regina $10.14; Edmonton-Calgary $10.27; and Vancouver $10.27.

ON THE PRAIRIES

Bike Gangs Go To Court

EDMONTON (CP)—A battle between members of two motorcycle gangs which moved from a residence to a hotel parking lot during the weekend has resulted in 14 persons being summonsed to appear in court Oct. 20. Police were first called to a residence to investigate reports that five carloads of men had entered and were damaging the house. Later, they were called to the parking lot where 15 fights were reported in progress.

PROBLEMS VARY
EDMONTON (CP)—Canada's education problems vary so much from province to province that national organizations are essential to communicate problems and exchange solutions, said G. W. MacKenzie, president of the 700-member Canadian Association of School Superintendents and inspectors meeting here this week.

ABORTIONS BACKED
JASPER, Alta. (CP)—Therapeutic abortions now should be regarded as the same as any other medical problem, the committee on maternal welfare told delegates to the Alberta Medical Association's annual meeting here Monday. The committee said the physician should interpret "health" liberally when considering the necessity of an abortion.

Business Chiefs 'In Hiding' Given Reprimand At Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Montreal business leader told the Canadian Chamber of Commerce today that business leaders should stop hiding behind hired hands and tell their own story to the public.

Robert C. Scrivener, president of Bell Canada, Montreal, told the chamber's annual convention that the impact of instant communications makes it necessary for business spokesmen to take a new look at their role in informing the public.

"Let's stop insulting ourselves," Mr. Scrivener said. "Let's appear more often before critical audiences and let's gain the experience we need to better put before the public the case for the latitude business properly needs to perform effectively to the benefit of the whole Canadian community."

He said business could not delegate this responsibility to subordinates or professions hired for the job.

"Businessmen have to a large extent, developed negative attitudes towards the news media and its reporters and this has tended to widen the communication gap."

MUST BREAK OUT

"It is the business leader himself who has to personally break out of the defensive formations we have created."

Mr. Scrivener also referred to what he called a Canadian attempt to play ostrich in the "excessively chauvinistic attitudes toward foreign capital."

"This is simply protectionism in another guise," he said, "and as such suffers from all its defects to say nothing of being an historical anachronism."

A text of Mr. Scrivener's speech was made available to the press in advance of delivery.

In sessions Monday, the chamber in the second day of its four-day annual convention heard its retiring president warn that Canada has become one of the most socialistic countries in the western world.

SAYS EMPHASIS WRONG

J. Allyn Taylor, president of Canada Trust-Huron and Erie of London, Ont., said federal government policies put the emphasis on redistribution of wealth rather than on incentives for creation of wealth and on spending rather than on saving.

"Canada cannot afford the discouragement," he said. "If Canada is to provide jobs for the two million young people who will come on the labor market during the '70s, we must maintain a climate that will encourage capital investment."

Gerard Levesque, Quebec minister of industry and commerce, told a luncheon meeting that his province wants the "unquestionable right to be different and to be both recognized and respected."

"We want to be ourselves, to be individual, to be respected," he said.

"At the same time, as members of the Canadian confederation, we want to contribute to a common goal with a common purpose... to make our country a better place in which to live."

Reds Stall Cambodian Drive And Lash Back With Shells

PHNOM PENH (AP) — Communist troops who have stalled the government's first major offensive lashed out at heavily reinforced Cambodian forces in two shelling attacks today, the military command reported.

A spokesman said the Cambodian troops, estimated at about 6,000 men, were pressing against light opposition into positions to try to envelop the Communist stronghold at Taing Kauk, 47 miles north of Phnom Penh.

An estimated 2,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong are in the village. The force has halted the government operation for nine days.

A South Vietnamese spokesman in Saigon said South Vietnamese forces with air and artillery support killed 54 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops in a newly launched amphibious operation into Cambodia centred along the Bassac and Mekong rivers 35 to 50 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

South Vietnamese forces claimed killing 34 guerrillas in a battle seven miles southwest of the South Vietnamese provincial capital of Ca Mau, 150 miles southwest of Saigon.

I'm Not Iffy, Says Bennett

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett refused Monday to do any crystal-gazing on the controversial question of whether hydro-electric power developments would be all-right on the Fraser River.

"I never deal with these iffy questions," he told reporters, emphasizing that a final decision on the matter would rest with the "government of the day."

Dr. Gordon Shrum, British Columbia Hydro chairman and head of the B.C. Energy Board, said last week that a 15-year study of the province's power needs ordered by the government last June would include the Fraser.

Mr. Bennett, however, said the government merely asked for a report on power needs up to 1985, which would also detail the availability of sources of power to meet those needs.

It also asked for realistic interim five-year goals.

"They (the energy board) can study anything they like—that's their job," the premier said.

He pointed out that preservation of salmon runs and flooding were two major problems requiring solutions.

Browns Seize Opportunities And Crush New York By 31-21

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Browns, taking advantage of interceptions and penalties assessed against New York, defeated the Jets 31-21 in a National Football League game Monday night.

The officiating crew called 21 penalties for a total of 262 yards, more than the yardage gained by the Browns in winning their opener in the American Conference of the NFL.

The most damaging penalties were assessed against the Jets, who were tagged for 13 infractions for 161 yards—a club record.

The Jets amassed 455 yards offensively—299 in the air as quarterback Joe Namath completed 19 of 32 passes. But among their penalties were three for pass interference, three for holding and one for piling on.

There were also three interceptions of Namath passes, a fumble by running back Matt Snell and a mistake in judgment by return specialist Mike Battle.

PENALTIES STOP DRIVE

Pass interference penalties by Jim Hudson and rookie Steve Tennen in the first quarter ended the Browns to score their second touchdown for a 14-0 lead. Then, after the Jets made it 14-7, holding penalties by John Schmidt and Randy Rasmussen blunted a drive that ultimately ended with Walt Summer's interception at the five.

After Homer Jones made it 21-7 for Cleveland by taking the second-half kickoff 94 yards to a touchdown, the Jets closed again with a touchdown before Paul Crane's piling-on penalty contributed to a Cleveland drive that resulted in Don Cockroft's 26-yard field goal.

The penalties stopped at that point, and the Jets took it the rest of the way. Snell fumbled on the seven-yard line to still one drive but Namath's 33-yard touchdown pass to George Sauer.

Then the Jets got another opportunity when Cleveland was forced to punt. Battle, however, failed to grab the punt on the New York 30. It bounced past him and he was downed at the four, where Namath tried to get something started.

One completion brought the ball to the 18, but a second went into the arms of linebacker Mike Andrews, who returned 25 yards for the final touchdown as the Browns scored their second touchdown for a 14-0 lead.

Vida's No-Hitter Views Quite Hard To Believe

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Only recently Vida Blue said, "You don't try to pitch a no-hitter."

Somehow it's hard to believe the 21-year-old Oakland Athletics rookie left-hander, who only 18 days ago was pitching in the minors.

Monday night Blue tried it and did it. He stopped Minnesota Twins without a hit, giving up only one walk—a fourth-inning pass to Harmon Killebrew on a 3-1 pitch-in missing a perfect game.

Oakland won the game 6-0 as Bert Campaneris scored their first run in the opening inning after cracking a triple and then drilled a three-run homer in the eighth off loser Jim Perry 23-12.

In other American League action, Baltimore Orioles nipped Detroit Tigers 4-3 in 12 innings. Boston Red Sox edged Cleveland Indians 2-1. New York Yankees stopped Washington Senators 5-2. California Angels nudged Milwaukee Brewers 7-6 and Chicago White Sox and Kansas City Royals split a doubleheader, the White Sox winning 8-4 before losing 8-2.

In the National League, Cincinnati Reds blanked Houston Astros 2-0 and San Francisco Giants trounced Los Angeles Dodgers 7-0.

Blue, a six-foot, 187-pounder from Mansfield, La., tossed a one-hitter only 10 days ago, beating Kansas City 3-0. He had a no-hitter for 7 2/3 innings before the Royals' Pat Kelly stroked the only hit.

After that game, Blue, now 2-0, after his fourth start for the Athletics this season, said, "You don't try for a no-hitter. If you did, you'd be second guessing yourself. You'd be shaking off pitches you ought to throw."

War Canoe Tries Again

Ron Derrickson achieved his objective during the weekend, but missed his goal.

The 145 cubic inch limited hydroplane jockey headed into the weekend thinking he needed only a 400-point first place finish to set a world record.

He got the 400 points, but only after learning the world standard was higher yet.

For several weeks the hot-shot pilot of War Canoe '69 raced with the understanding the world record for a single season in any limited class was 10,500. He went into Sunday's race with 10,138 and the 400 points pushed him to 10,538, a record for his 145 class.

But a check during the week showed the all-time record was set at 11,228 points about four years ago by a 266 cubic inch boat out of Washington, D.C. So Derrickson needs two more first-place finishes to crack the mark.

Next action is this weekend in California, but a lack of money forces Derrickson to miss the event. His next racing will come two weeks from now, near Seattle, when he can get 400 points closer to the goal.

One weekend later it could be all over, as Derrickson and the War Canoe head for a two-day event at Harrison in the Fraser Valley—a possible 800 points.

Each event consists of two heats, so the super-quick water jockey could be six heats and three weekends away from realizing his dream.

Both yachts had protested following a collision at the start of the second race. The committee upheld Intrepid and ruled Gretel II had fouled her.

Privately some Australians, noting that the race committee was judge and jury for a race it was running, called the ruling "a hometown decision."

A 15-25 knot southwest wind is predicted, giving Gretel II a chance to see if she can take her rival in heavy air as well as light.

Officially, the Aussies kept their upper lips stiff. Sir Frank Packer, head of the Gretel II syndicate, said he was "disappointed with the decision. But the best thing to do is to go out and win four straight."

AND THE SCORE WASN'T LOVE

LOS ANGELES (Reuters) — Tennis star Bob Hewitt of South Africa was taken to hospital with a slight brain concussion after he was knocked out by a 70-year-old spectator during a tennis tournament here Monday.

Hewitt, 30, was knocked out in a locker room minutes after losing a men's singles match to Joaquin Loyo-Mayo of Mexico in the annual Pacific Southwest open tennis championships.

His assailant was Tony Heinsbergen, a well-known Los Angeles-area artist and interior decorator.

Heinsbergen, who exchanged bitter words with Hewitt during the match, followed the six-foot-one, 180-pound South African into the locker room and resumed the argument.

Hewitt turned away and walked to his locker. Suddenly Heinsbergen, who stands 5-6 and weighs about 160, was reported to have taken after Hewitt and hit him with two karate type blows on the back of the head.

Heinsbergen was said to have become incensed with Hewitt after the latter had protested calls by linemen at different times during the match.

Loyo-Mayo won 6-2, 3-6, 6-3.

Fighters Prepare

DETROIT (AP) — Joe Frazier, heavyweight boxing king, and light-heavyweight champion Bob Foster are set today to begin training for a 15-round heavyweight title fight here Nov. 18.

Frazier, who will make the first defence of the title he won in June, 1969, signed for the title match with Foster Monday.

The newly formed Twenty-First Century Promotions, Inc., of Detroit is staging fight at the Cobo Arena. The fight contract carried no rematch clause.

Foster has had 43 fights, with 39 wins by knockout or decisions and only four losses.

Foster, who won his title in May, 1968, said that, after his four successful defenses of his laurels he figured it was time to move up.

Good-And-Lucky Would Be Theme For Team Seeking Stanley Cup

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

NHL's regular season opens Oct. 9.

At the moment, he has four regulars on the suspended list because they have refused to play exhibition games until their contract disputes are settled.

He took the unorthodox approach last week against Park, centres Walt Tkaczuk and Jean Ratelle, and winger Vic Hadfield.

Monday, in Toronto, legal advisers for the four claimed the suspensions were arbitrary.

"We believe the suspensions carry a taint," said Martin Blackman, who along with his New York City legal partner Steve Arhold represents the four Rangers in the contract negotiations.

By luck, he was referring to injuries, something his New York Rangers had plenty of last year during the stretch run for the NHL's Eastern Division laurels.

The little, and sometimes volatile, Ranger GM said injuries at key positions, especially on defence where all-star Brad Park and veterans Arnie Brown, Jim Neilson and Rod Seiling were sidelined for varying periods of time, proved costly.

The Rangers went out in the division finals against Boston Bruins, eventual cup winners.

This year, however, his interpretation of luck might follow a different channel—salary negotiations and his efforts to clear up the problem before the

Canada's Skiers Off To Europe

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian ski team leaves today for Europe and three months of extensive training.

"I understand the French have not spent more than eight days without skiing this summer," said team member Keith Shepherd of Waskeiu, Sask., Monday night.

"We have to catch up."

The departure is the earliest ever for a Canadian team which usually leaves in late November or December and remains in Europe until February.

This time, however, the trip is more of a training exercise and the top skiers will be selected in December.

DATSUN 1600 AUTOMATIC

It's so good we're thinking of making the stickshift an option

There are semi-automatic small cars. There are two-speed automatic small cars. And there are big-car automatic transmissions awkwardly studied into small cars. To us, none of these makes sense.

Which is why we developed the Datsun 1600 automatic

It's a three-speed automatic transmission that's designed to work with Datsun 1600's gear ratios. To put it simply, the transmission is engineered to match the engine's performance. It sounds logical enough, but it isn't true of every car. We took a lot of trouble to make sure our automatic transmission didn't rob the engine of horsepower. We were careful to see that the difference in gas mileage was hardly appreciable... and that Datsun 1600's performance remained just as sharp.

After all, Datsun 1600 has won more international rallies than any car in its class, so it has a reputation to maintain.

An automatic transmission is usually an option

We make a great stickshift, and it sells for a bit less. But in today's traffic conditions, Datsun 1600 automatic makes so much sense, that maybe we ought to make the stick-shift the option. See your nearby Datsun dealer today.

Mauve And White Color Theme For Michaylow-Zlatich Rites

Mauve and white was the color theme chosen for the Sept. 12 wedding solemnized in St. Pius X Roman Catholic Church by Rev. Charles Mulvihill, uniting Lucille Celestina Zlatich of Kelowna and Michael George Michaylow, also of Kelowna.

Mauve and white mums and gladioli with tall white candelabra decorated the church for the 4 p.m. ceremony. Soloist Mrs. Ken Harding of Kelowna, accompanied by Mrs. John Suschnik, aunt of the bride, sang The Wedding during the processional and Wedding Prayer during the communion and Ave Maria while the bride and groom signed the register.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Zlatich of Kelowna and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Michaylow of Rutland.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in a long gown of mauve polyester georgette, featuring a flowing empire waistline, with scoop neck and large puffy sleeves. A long train finished with re-embroidered lace in a floral motif added back interest and a large white rose centred her headdress of tiny rose buds enhanced with pearls. Her mauve shoulder-length veil misted from the headpiece and she carried a bouquet of white trailing roses and rose buds, centred with a mauve orchid.

FAMILY JEWELRY
Her mother's tiny gold cross and her grandmother's medal on a fine gold chain completed the "something old-something borrowed" tradition.

Janie Zlatich of Kelowna attended her sister as maid-of-honor and the groom's sister, Rose Michaylow, also of Kelowna, served as bridesmaid. They were charming in hot pink nylon crystal full-length gowns featuring empire waistlines with short sleeves. Long trains fell from the shoulders of their gowns and they carried baskets of mauve tinted carnations and trailing ivy leaves. Diamond earrings, gifts from the bride, were worn and tiny rose buds nestled in their large curls.

Serving as best man was Dick Honscharow of Westbank and ushers were George Michaylow, brother of the groom, Marvin Vetter, brother-in-law of the groom, and Gerald Larden, all of Kelowna. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Zlatich chose a brocade coat-dress ensemble of turquoise with black accessories and the groom's mother wore a wine velvet dress. White carnations formed their corsages.

John Suschnik, uncle of the bride, proposed the toast to the bride at the reception which followed at the Elks' Hall and Dick Honscharow did the honors for the bridal attendants.

SEVEN TIERED CAKE
A seven tiered wedding cake, flanked by two large sterling candelabra centred the white cloth covered bride's table. Two mauve and white hearts formed the background for the bride and groom, with baskets of mauve and white mums and standing candelabra on either side.

Telegrams from all the bride's aunts, uncles and cousins and grandmother from Klana, Yugoslavia, and several other humorous telegrams from friends unable to attend were read.

For leaving on a honeymoon trip to points south the bride changed to a pink fortrel dress with matching coat, accented with navy blue accessories and a corsage of white carnations and baby sweetheart roses.

The young couple will reside at Scorboro Road, Rutland.

Out-of-town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Mike Ferko, Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. Stan Kostuk of Golden, B.C.; Karl Stemberger of Jasper, Alta.; Sam Gazincic of Barine Lake, B.C.

Damage Rankles Rutland Residents As Vandals Strike In Park Ground

RUTLAND — Vandals caused considerable damage and mess in parks and public facilities here during the summer and stole two plaques donated to the community as Centennial projects by the community's leading citizen, John Wilson.

The plaques are matched, mounted deer horns and were placed in the hall. Other crimes committed included smashing toilets in washrooms and the ball park.

Garbage and broken beer bottles were several times strewn about the ball field and in the dug-outs.

FOUND GUILTY
VANCOUVER (CP) — Allan Patterson, 59, a former Vancouver mayorally candidate, was found guilty Monday of threatening secretary Linda Millward in the Western Airlines office May 28. Mrs. Millward said Patterson became abusive after he asked her for the manager, and then the president, of the airline. He was remanded to Sept. 28 for sentencing.

Final Rites In Kelowna

Funeral services were held from Day's Chapel of Remembrance, Friday, for Norman Renton Olding of Kelowna, who died Tuesday.

Mr. Olding is survived by his wife, Marguerite, two sons, Edwin of San Leandro, Calif., and David of Kelowna, two brothers, two sisters and four grandchildren.

At the time of his retirement, Mr. Olding was a national operations engineer for the Canadian Broadcasting Company.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Robert Brown, followed by cremation.

WATER CHIMES
HAVANTI, England (CP) — This Hampshire town's public lavatory is kicking up a song and dance. The toilet, situated in a park, is licensed for chamber music, according to a sign on the wall. But the park's manager, Gordon Milton, cleared up the confusion when he told residents that it was the park that was licensed and that the toilet wall was the only convenient place to put the sign.

A Reader Offers Deeper Dimension

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: After I read the letter from the mother of the boy with the club foot, I thought I'd drop you a line. I agree with you: it could have been worse.

I am the mother of two retarded boys. One is trainable, the other untrainable and living in a state institution. These boys have taught me to really love and cherish things that so many take for granted. They have taught me to better understand neighbors and complete strangers. These boys love everybody, even ones that make fun of them. Retarded children will never bring shame to our country as so many college students do.

They really try to learn everything they possibly can and are grateful for every little thing done for them. It's too bad Mrs. S. J. hasn't learned from her son: self-pity will only make an invalid team. Will be looking forward to tomorrow's column.—Mrs. M.W.

I received so many accounts of babies with club feet who, with casts and sometimes with surgery, overcame the trouble, but Mrs. M.W. provides a deeper dimension. My thanks to her.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am bothered with gas in my intestines. Do you have any way to rid me of it?—Mrs. L.S.

Maybe, maybe not. I give you this answer because you haven't given me any idea of what type of "gas" trouble you have. You might be an air-swallower. (Air-swallowers, it seems, never believe it when first told.) Maybe you have some food allergy that bothers you. Maybe you have nervous tensions that may contribute to having a "nervous colon."

Those are some of the commoner causes of "gas," but as you can see, the right way to correct one type may be the wrong way for another.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am in my middle 30s, was married to a man who did not want children, although he did not tell me this until after we were married. I have been divorced 10 years now and do not intend to marry again.

This is my question: I want to have a baby by artificial insemination and would like to know if this is a legal procedure for an unmarried woman?—W.B.

That's a legal, not a medical question, and in fairness I can only suggest that you get your answer—if there are any—from an attorney. It is my understanding that this is still pretty much a "grey area" of the law, that the legislatures haven't provided much in the way of specific rules.

I suspect that such centres as are equipped to do artificial insemination would be reluctant to do so unless they have legal assurance that they are on safe ground.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For several years I have been taking one capsule daily of diocetyl sodium sulfosuccinate for stool softening. Is there any harm in continuing this indefinitely?—E.A.L.

No.

Opening lead—ten of spades.

Dear Mr. Becker: I suffer from nightmares—bridge nightmares, that is—and my sleep is often disturbed by a recurring dream that will not go away regardless of what I do. I have gone to see many psychiatrists about this, but they must be very poor bridge players indeed, since they are unable to help me at all.

When I originally played this hand in a rubber bridge game many years ago, I made the grand slam despite East's holding of four trumps to the jack. You may wonder how I accomplished this, since East appears to have a sure trump trick. However, I can assure you that on that occasion, and on at least a thousand others since, I made the contract (in my dreams, of course).

West's invariable opening lead was the ten of spades. Anticipating a trump coup if East had four to the jack, I won the spade in dummy with the ace, dropping my king on it, and ruffed a spade.

After cashing the A-K of trumps and discovering the 4-1 break, I led a diamond to the queen, ruffed another spade, led the king of diamonds to the ace, and ruffed the queen of spades.

Continuing the trump-reducing process, I overtook the king of clubs with the ace, ruffed a diamond, and returned to dummy with a club. When I now led a club at trick twelve, East's J-5 of trumps succumbed to my Q-10, and the outcome was that I made the grand slam.

Perhaps you are baffled as to why I find this magnificent performance so disturbing, but the fact is that for the past two years the East-West cards have somehow gotten scrambled and the West hand now consists of spades 10, hearts J2, diamonds J9765, clubs 87653.

As a result of this transformation, I always go down one when West overruffs me at trick two—and the next thing I know I wake up screaming! Mournfully yours, N. Sommiac.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Mar. 21 to Apr. 20 (Aries)—Important now that you curb your innate aggressiveness. Be especially tactful in dealing with superiors.

Apr. 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—A good day for advancing routine interests, improving properties. Be alert to new trends.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Mercury, favorable, now stimulates writings, communications generally.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Especially favored now: Artistry, unique plans (if feasible), long-range projections.

July 24 to Aug. 23 (Leo)—The solar influences stimulate your versatility, quick wit and gift of leadership. But co-operation with others will be needed, nevertheless.

Aug. 24 to Sept. 23 (Virgo)—Some business problems may be trying, but a friend's aid in helping you to realize a personal wish will MAKE your day.

Sept. 24 to Oct. 23 (Libra)—Not a good day for making important transactions, so hold everything!

Oct. 24 to Nov. 23 (Scorpio)—Situations may take a perplexing turn, so try to make yourself very clear to others. And don't be impulsive or changeable in making decisions.

Nov. 24 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius)—A good day for joint financial transactions. Your innate foresight can further interests.

Dec. 22 to Jan. 20 (Capricorn)—Postpone dealing with important or authoritative persons as they would quite likely disapprove of your plans at the moment.

Jan. 21 to Feb. 19 (Aquarius)—Be cautious in both words and actions now, as there are influences at work which may cloud your judgment.

Feb. 20 to Mar. 20 (Pisces)—Mixed influences. Needed: Perseverance, common sense, new tactics and methods.

Astrospects — Do not make mountains of the proverbial molehills as the day starts. Problems you are anticipating may actually be non-existent. There is a tendency now toward unwarranted anxiety, doubts and fears as to outcomes. Take all in stride and you will be surprised at how well all turns out.

BARRER EXERCISE
SUTTON, England (CP) — Men who bicycle to work could be ruining their chances of becoming fathers because, according to a Surrey doctor, Emanuel Saphier, sitting on a bicycle seat can disturb a man's fertility cells. But, Dr. Saphier adds, a man cycling to a party hoping that it will act as a contraceptive can forget it. It takes at least six weeks hard cycling before any effects are apparent.
